THE ANTIGALLICAN

TOM BOWLING

NEW TITLE

SALES POINTS:

- A tale to delight fans of Patrick O'Brian, Bernard Cornwell, C.S. Forester
- The first historical fiction to really explore naval war of the period from the French perspective
- First of a series of novels to feature Jersey-born sailor, Jean Cotterell.
- The new novel featuring Jean Cotterell, entitled Hearts of Oak will be available as a tpb in September '09

DESCRIPTION:

Jersey fishing captain, Jean Cotterell is rescued by a French frigate – The Hortense – off the Grand Banks of Nova Scotia in May 1794. His fishing vessel has foundered and he is the sole survivor. The Hortense is part of Republican Admiral Jan Van Stabel's great fleet of over 100 ships bringing corn to France. Lord Howe's Channel Fleet is off Brest, hoping to intercept them.

Life on The Hortense is like France under the Terror; chaotic, ungovernable, obsessed with savage, radical political theories. Separated from the French fleet in the Western Approaches she is intercepted by two British frigates and battle is joined...

The Antigallican is the first in a series of novels set at the end of the 18th century at sea, in Britain, in the Channel Islands and in Revolutionary France. In Jean Cotterell we find a character that bears comparison with Bernard Cornwell's Sharpe, in a narrative that will delight fans of Patrick O'Brian.

BIOGRAPHY:

Tom Bowling is a Londoner born into a seafaring family in the Neckinger, a part of Bermondsey allegedly named after the Devil's Neckinger or noose worn by pirates executed there. He is the author of Pirates and Privateers, published by Pocket Essentials.
